

Give the Blessing of Abundance

(for your children, grandchildren and unmarried family members)

This is a pretty simple, yet heart-warming ritual.

In China, for the New Year, parents gift their children with Red Prosperity Envelopes filled with cash.

Select a Prosperity red envelope you enjoy, or the one you think your children would enjoy. Decide how much you want to gift. Fill the envelope with money and close it (you don't have to seal it).
SEE MY FUN GUIDE TO YOUR PROSPERITY ENVELOPES BELOW!

TIP: you may gift any amount of money you want. However, I do recommend you use the above guide to Chinese Numerology I've offered you above. Say, if you want to gift $20, then why not gift 18 or 28 instead, to make the ultimate number additionally lucky. If you wanted to gift $60 or $70 dollars, how about going up to $68, $80 or $88 (this way your lucky children will get a few extras).

Traditionally, it's best to give your money-filled Prosperity Envelopes to the recipients when you are having a Holiday family dinner. The perfect day to do so is when you are celebrating a Chinese New Year with family and friends. (Or, if you don't do that, even Western New Year celebration will work!)

Incidentally, if you would like to transfer this charming ritual onto another holiday you celebrate, when the family and friends gather at an inviting and warm dinner table, I say do it!

Say, you decide to gift your young ones the cash-filled prosperity envelopes during Christmas, Western New Year, Easter, summer picnic or a Thanksgiving/Harvest celebration dinner.

Or, what if you decided to gift your very special birthday boy or girl this way... What a great way to do something different, and what a conversation piece! Plus, your children will begin learning about the fascinating foreign cultures in the most fun and positive way!

Who should you gift this way?

Generally, the rule of thumb is that the older generation gifts the younger members of the family, not the other way around. The symbolism is very beautiful: this is a blessing of the matriarch and patriarch of the family to their young. Therefore, if you are a mother or father, or if you are a grandparent, you can gift this way your children and grandchildren.

A kindly aunt or uncle, or simply an adult dear friend of the family, can do the same – and instantly become the favorite of the children!

Chinese are even more particular about who they gift this way:

1. Young children who are in school (anywhere between 5-6 and 21-22 years of age)
2. Unmarried young members of the family of any age.

That said, my hubby's Hong Kong parents still gift us sometimes with red envelopes during Chinese New Year when we come to visit, despite us being married. We certainly don't object. ;)

If your child is married with children, it is considered that he/she is already a parent and has to get his/her own 'gifting program' going. So, if this is your situation, then gift your grandchildren. But if your children are older, yet unmarried – it's still a great idea to gift them with the Money-filled Prosperity Envelopes. This simple yet heart-warming ritual will translate into your blessing and good wishes, which may bring them a lot of luck, including in the area of marriage and children.

How to pick your envelopes for this ritual?

Due to the direct correlation of this particular ritual with family and children, usually the envelopes that have the children symbolism are used.

The size isn't important. Generally, any red envelopes will work, as long as they emanate a symbolism of prosperity, especially for the older children.

For the young, or if one of your good wishes for your offspring is to get married and start a family, use children's symbolism.

Examples

General prosperity and luck envelopes, suitable for any age and for any ritual:

Children-themed envelopes, which come with gold prosperity seals (lower center). Good for this ritual!

The above envelope, depicting dragon and phoenix and the double happiness symbol, symbolizes happy marriage.

Dragon and phoenix combo is a representation of the happy yin-yang, male-female union. It also symbolizes balance and harmony.

If your sacred wish for your child is to get married and have a happy family, this kind of envelope makes sense.

These envelopes are designed specifically for gifting money.

Filled with traditional colorful auspicious symbolism, they are a rare horizontal breed, with a flap and scalloped opening in the front. They don't get sealed – just close the flap.

This envelope is the size of a USD bill, so you don't have to fold the money inside – very convenient.

TIP: If you can, try to gift the new bills. As a matter of fact, the rule of only filling your envelopes with new money applies to all our Prosperity Envelope rituals.
